14.45 PANEL 2 - NEW CPR: TOWARDS MORE SUSTAINABILITY IN CONSTRUCTION?

The Construction Products Regulation (CPR) is one of the most important pieces of legislation in the construction sector, setting the legal requirements which construction products need to meet to circulate freely within the EU. Considering that these products have a significant environmental impact, its revision was presented as part of the Circular Economy package. This panel will discuss the opportunities that the revision creates to make construction products more sustainable. A focus will be given on the key role of standards for the achievement of the CPR's objectives and how the regulation can be applied by SMEs without adding administrative burdens on them.

- Hein BOLLENS, Deputy Head of Unit, Green & Digital twin transition: Construction & Standards, DG GROW, European Commission
- Alexandre BELTRAO, Product Standards Manager, Tata Steel
- Dr. Christine LEMAITRE, Chief Executive Officer, DGNB e.V.
